Eight Guiding Principles for Scaling Transformative Change

Since 2012, the Office of Community College Research and Leadership (OCCRL) and The Collaboratory have partnered to create the Transformative Change Initiative \(TCI\). TCI endorses the use of guiding principles that support the scaling of transformative change in the community college context. These principles do not dictate action, but rather enable informed decision making about innovation and reform. They reflect theory about scaling, while also integrating the practical advice of community college educators and partners.

Based on initial research, the TCI team introduced a set of seven guiding principles for scaling innovation at the TCI Learning Lab in Orlando in 2014. During the summer of 2014, the team engaged practitioners in reviewing and revising these principles to ensure they reflect actual practice—what community college practitioners and their partners are seeing and doing day-to-day to scale change. The new set of eight guiding principles for scaling was presented at the TCI Learning Lab 2015 in Baltimore.
